COMMUTER CONNECTIONS
A SMARTER WAY TO WORK

Background / Executive Summary

Bike to Work Day has been held annually in the Washington metropolitan region for over two decades and was originally started by the Washington Area Bicyclist Association (WABA) with a rallying point or "pit stop" in downtown DC. In September 2000, The National Capital Region Transportation Planning Board's (TPB) Commuter Connections program, housed at the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG), partnered with WABA to form a regional Bike to Work Day Steering Committee to examine the feasibility of adding additional Bike to Work Day pit stops throughout the region. In 2001, the expanded event created a greater awareness of bicycling to work as a viable commuting alternative.

Since that first regional Bike to Work Day, annual registrations have grown exponentially over the years. More than 12,800 participants registered for the May 15, 2026, event. Each local pit stop offered free refreshments, T-shirts, and other giveaways to cyclists. Many pit stops had additional activities for bicyclists and are described later in this report.

Commuter Connections provided the following resources for Bike to Work Day 2026:

- Developed a comprehensive marketing effort that included a comprehensive paid media campaign, printed materials such as posters and rack cards, and email marketing to employers and previous participants. Vinyl banner artwork template was also created.
- Updated and maintained the official event web site and social media accounts.
- 18,000 free T-shirts for all registered participants.

Additional outreach for Bike to Work Day 2026 included:

- Promoting the event through WABA's membership.
- Local marketing efforts by the pit stop managers.
- An earned media campaign to pitch news outlets and like-minded organizations through COG's Office of Communications and WABA.
- Bicycles donated for the regional raffle from BicycleSPACE, Bikes@Vienna, and Handy Bikes.

Since 2000, the COG/TPB's Commuter Connections program has worked to increase awareness of bicycling to work as a viable commuting option by joining with WABA in their efforts to promote and coordinate the region's annual Bike to Work Day event. Although bicycling to work accounts for a small percentage of the overall regional commute mode split, the two-wheeled commute helps reduce traffic congestion, improves air quality, and provides a healthy travel alternative for commuters who choose to use it as a sustainable means of transportation to and from work.

HIGHLIGHTS

PIT STOP

COMMUTER CONNECTIONS.
A SMARTER WAY TO WORK

DC NE Fort Totten

The Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) hosted its second annual Bike to Work Day pit stop at Fort Totten Metro Station along the Metropolitan Branch Trail. The pit stop recorded 156 official registrations, including 20 participants who registered on-site, and welcomed a total of 204 community members throughout the morning. Attendees stopped by to pick up Metro's 50th anniversary-themed giveaways, enjoy coffee and doughnuts provided by Dunkin' Donuts, and register their bicycles with the Metropolitan Transit Police Department. WMATA also shared information about its Bike & Ride facilities and newly available bike lockers, highlighting resources that support and encourage multimodal transportation.

DC NE NOMA

DC NW Adams Morgan at Unity Park

Unity Park came alive for Bike to Work Day, as the Adams Morgan Partnership BID and welcomed over 350 riders to the pit stop. Cyclists fueled up with bagels and coffee from Call Your Mother, while vendors Veo, Pepco, and WABA connected with the community and Upshift Workshop helped riders tune up their bikes. It was an energetic morning, marking this as one of the best-attended Bike to Work Days in recent years. DC Ward 1 Councilmember Brianne Nadeau joined the event for her final Bike to Work Day pit stop appearance as an elected official as did two of the candidates vying to replace her (Rashida Brown and Miguel Trindade Deramo). The pit stop would like to offer a shout-out is to John Zottoli, who has volunteered at this pit stop every year, for 13 years, and is moving away soon.

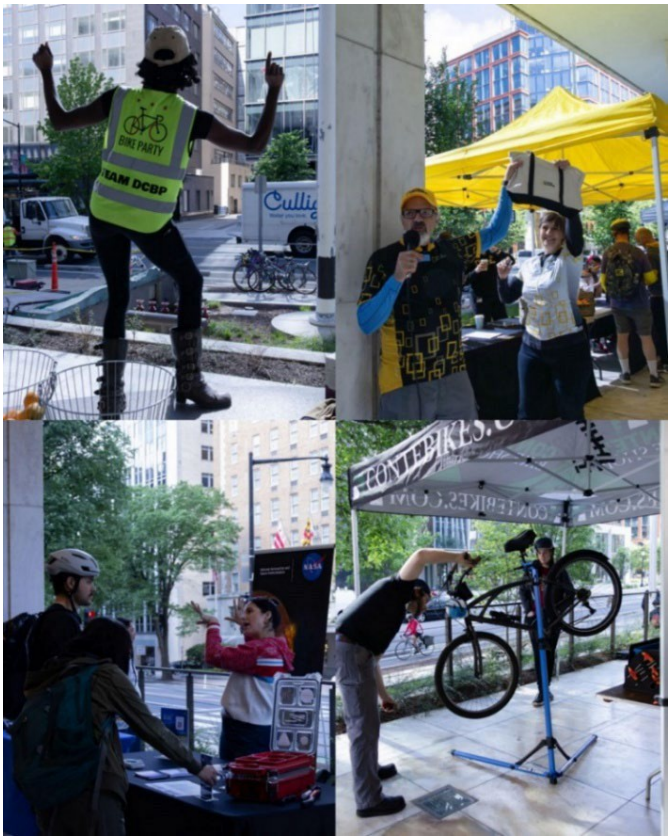

DC NW National Geographic Headquarters

National Geographic Headquarters served as a pit stop host for the National Geographic Society, where a dedicated team of 15 volunteers coordinated the event. The stop welcomed 178 registrants, featuring a diverse group of National Geographic staff and local community members, including many first-time riders. Attendees enjoyed a festive atmosphere with music, alongside refreshments such as coffee, pastries and fruit.

The event featured nine vendors: the League of American Bicyclists, Body Mechanix, Bike House, Ward 5 Family Biking, DC Scores, NASA, Conte's Bike Shop, DC Bike Party, and the National Geographic Museum of Exploration. Beyond tabling to share resources and upcoming event details, the stop provided two bike repair stations and chair massages. Giveaways were plentiful, ranging from National Geographic magazines and coffee to bike locks, crayons and “Free Solo” soundtrack vinyl records.

Prize drawings held every 15 minutes kept excitement high. Items were donated by several organizations, including Union Stage Presents, WMATA, Founding Farmers, DUA DC Coffee, Wise Guy Pizza, DC Bouldering Project and the Museum of Exploration Shop. Prizes included a 10-day bouldering pass, NASA sweatshirts, gift cards, tote bags, concert tickets, jars of honey from National Geographic bees and a signed copy of Joel Sartore's “Birds of the Photo Ark.” Additionally, the event promoted the June 26 opening of the National Geographic Museum of Exploration.

DC NW Cleveland Park
at Uptown Theater

This was the 3rd year this pitstop was hosted and 74 people stopped by. All Bike to Work Day shirts were distributed. The pit stop had a visit from the Connecticut Avenue Bike to Work Day convoy, including Ward 3 councilmember Matt Frumin (3rd from right in the photo, in the blue jacket).

The pit stop was made possible by Janell Pagats, co-manager, Amanda Cate, breakfast sponsor and deliverer, Bob Ward, who offered space for storage, Gawain Kripke, assisting with set up and logistics and, Lori Michaelson, who helped the entire time from the very beginning of setup to the end of cleanup. The Ward 3 Bike Advocates continue to push for a protected, two way bike lane on Connecticut Avenue from Chevy Chase Circle to Calvert Street, as DDOT was planning from 2019 to 2024 before abruptly changing plans and deciding to keep the status quo.

DC NW Columbia Heights Plaza

Although the morning pit stops were held in a brisk dawn, a bright, sunny, hot, low-humidity afternoon unfolded for the 17th annual Columbia Heights Plaza event.

230 (including 12 new or previously signed up at other Pit-stops) intrepid riders visited, obtained their T-shirts and snacks and water, schmoozed with WABA staff, retiring DC Councilwoman Brianne Nadeau, ANC 1A rep Jeremy Sherman, and Council-candidate Rashida Brown, and represented the DC Bicycling Community! 206 had signed up prior to the event, which grew to 231 in total from electronic on-site new-sign-ups.

The pit stop was made possible by its indefatigable volunteers: Charlotte, David, Imad, Miles, Nicole (and son, Benjamin), and Patricia! The pit stop appreciated Giant Food, who supplied the fruit: oranges, apples, and ice, Lidl - bananas, and District Bridges (Mitra Moin) who provided tables! Joe, from Bike House, provided bike-tech services. This year, the Adams Morgan Pit-stop didn't have any extra T-shirts to supplement, and CoHi ran out of Large (early, and later Medium) sizes. A generous supply of remaining 2024 (orange) and 2025 (red) T shirts were snapped up by non-cyclists, and others who had missed last year's distribution!

DC NW Georgetown Waterfront Park

BellRinger returned to host the Georgetown Waterfront Bike to Work Day pit stop alongside the Georgetown BID. This pit stop hosted 450+ participants from 7 - 9AM and riders were greeted by cheering and ringing cowbells. Participants enjoyed snacks, giveaways, and services from 13 vendors. There was also a raffle for a Nespresso Vertuo Pop+ machine, alongside freshly brewed coffee.

DC NW SHAW

The Shaw pit stop had a great turnout, drawing a wide mix of people, mostly young to middle-aged adults, plus noticeably more kids than last year. Both solo riders and groups rolled through, creating a steady and cheerful atmosphere, and several attendees who had the day off still came out to ride.

The Bike to Work Day T-shirts were the most popular item by far, though the new DDOT bike maps drew a lot of interest as well. Most folks also picked up water, energy drinks, and snacks. Some grabbed their items and headed out, while others stayed to chat with pit stop managers and fellow riders. Feedback was overwhelmingly positive, and a few riders offered suggestions for giveaways and snacks to add next year.

The stop itself was spacious and welcoming, with plenty of room for riders to park and gather. Even those who didn't stop smiled or waved as they passed by.

DC NW VIDA FITNESS

The annual Bike to Work Day Pit Stop at VIDA Fitness was a huge success! Staff members had amazing time connecting with cyclists from across the community, introducing them to everything VIDA has to offer, and giving away complimentary club services and wellness experiences. The staff enjoyed meeting so many new faces, catching up with familiar ones, and celebrating a day dedicated to health, movement, and community!

Sponsors including Potbelly's and Trader Joe's provided sandwiches and snacks for attendees, while Tatte Café and Bar Angie contributed gift cards for raffle winners. ACC staff and volunteers were out in full force distributing a wide assortment of ACC-branded swag. The event showcased ACC's continued commitment to promoting cycling as a heart-healthy activity and an environmentally friendly mode of transportation.
